MDCCCLXXXVII.

LECTORI S.

F. W. Ullrichium, „qui primus in Thucydide sapere ausus est“, si quando in difficiliore scriptoris loco haereret dubiusque esset, quid verbum aliquod aut dictio sibi vellet, saepenumero querentem audivimus discipuli, opus esse indice Thucydideo eoque certissimo ac locupletissimo, qui omnes omnium verborum locos referret, utilemque imprimis ac vere necessariam auctori operam navaturum, qui talem indicem conficiendum susciperet. Indice opus esse non lexico. Nam qui suis oculis videre ac perspicere locum vellet, acquiescere non posse in alius doctrina, quae singulas verbi alicuius significationes pro arbitrio disposuisset falsisque non raro locis assignasset; ad veram scriptoris sententiam enucleandam omnes semper cuiuscunque verbi locos in usum esse vocandos inter seque conferendos. Adesse quidem Thucydidem legentibus suis opibus E. A. Bétant professoris Genevensis lexicon, neque se profecto esse, qui huius viri doctissimi laboriosissimum opus suis laudibus frustraretur; attamen neque omnes continere locos neque, id quod imprimis dolendum, particulas, tenerrima illa, quae mentem scriptoris proderent, lineamenta.

Persuasit mihi fateor vir egregius iudicio suo atque auctoritate, et quod probe intellegere mihi videbar, operam et oleum non esse perditurum, qui ad necessarium hoc opus elaborandum sese accingeret, alacri animo quicquid otii nanctus essem ad indicem hunc Thucydideum conficiendum conferebam. Non deerat quidem ingenue fateor summa, ne quid omnino omitteretur, cura, atque ita spero fore ut pro maximo, quem ex Thucydidis lectione cepi, fructu aliquantulam certe pro virili parte scriptori gratiam retulerim.

Hamburgi, mense Septembri MDCCCLXXXVII.
